New Rules of Marketing and PR

OLD = Press Releases

- For the media/press
- Media coverage or bust

NEW = News Releases

- For everyone (Your buyers!)
- SEO tool
- Maybe get media coverage

New Rules of Marketing and PR

There are nearly 50,000 press releases issued each MONTH.

- 2,500 per business day
- 300 per business hour
- One every 12 seconds

“Scoop” goes to Google, Yahoo, etc.

Sure, the media reads them all.

Think about it...

1. Most releases get no media coverage
2. News releases are often the best quality and most frequently updated content a company produces
 - Inbound Marketing heavily depends on fresh, quality content
3. News releases can contain links
 - Linkbuilding is both a powerful and difficult component of Inbound Marketing

News Release Goals

1. Build inbound links to increase search rank
 1. Move from bottom to top of page 1
 2. Move from page 2 to page 1
 3. Build rank for important keyword that you do not rank for today
 4. Build Page Rank and Authority
2. Increase “find-ability” through distributed content
3. Get press coverage

Modern News Release Tips

1. Content
2. Keywords
3. Links
4. Boilerplate
5. Posting
6. Distribution
7. Frequency & Timing
8. Measurement

Content

Content

1. Your existing content is likely good
2. Don't only do "Our Company Just Did X"
3. Ideas:
 - Industry trends
 - Survey data
 - Case studies

Style Changes

1. Names

- “Brian Halligan” every time, not just the first time

2. Abbreviations

1. “Search Engine Optimization” vs “SEO” vs “Search Engine Optimization (SEO)”

Keywords

Keywords

1. Use Keyword Grader (HubSpot)
2. Or use 3-4 Tools plus Excel
3. Pick 1-2 to focus on per release
 1. Best keywords: long term & boilerplate
 2. Long tail: couple press releases, might not be cost effective
4. Use in title
5. Use in text
6. Use as anchor text

Links

Links

1. Use keywords as anchor text
2. Match to page title of target page
3. Have a link in first 250 words if possible
4. Have one URL link as well
5. Be wary of links to other websites
6. Remember the other 99% of your website besides your home page

Distribution

Wire Services

What to look for in a news release wire service:

1. Allows links with anchor text
2. Articles get indexed in Google, Yahoo, etc.
3. Support for multimedia, if desired
4. Ideas:
 1. www.marketwire.com
 2. www.prweb.com
 3. <http://www.prnewswire.com/mnr/>

Feel free to experiment with a couple.

Why spend money on distribution?

- The larger/more expensive services tend to have better distribution.
- “Free” or cheap services seem to have smaller distribution.
- I have not tested this extensively... yet. But my basic research indicates you do get what you pay for.
- What is a “permanent” link worth to you with good anchor text?

Don't Use PRNewswire "Regular"

- They don't allow links with anchor text
- Their entire site is one URL, they use frames
- Their page title is not optimized
- Can use "MultiVu"
 - <http://www.prnewswire.com/mnr/>

The screenshot shows the PR Newswire website interface. At the top left is the PR Newswire logo with the tagline "United Business Media". The main header reads "News & Information" with the slogan "tell your story to the world." Below this is a navigation menu with links for Home, Send Release, Today's News, MultiVu, Industry & Markets, International News, RSS, Our Services, About Us, and Contact Us. A secondary menu includes PRN Direct, PR Toolkit, Public Affairs Toolkit, and The Board.com. A large blue banner in the center contains the text: "When you send your release with MultiVu, we'll optimize it for higher visibility on search engines." A large red 'X' is superimposed over the entire screenshot. At the bottom left, there is a text block: "Search Engine Optimization (SEO) is added at no additional charge to every premium national newswire with LIS1 distribution." To the right of this text is a small inset image of a PRN Direct interface.

Frequency & Timing

The game changed, so play differently.

You: "I'd like to send out a news release at least twice a month."

PR Firm: "I don't think we have enough newsworthy events, and the media don't like spam releases with non-news."

You: "There are 50,000 press releases per month that they don't read. News releases help us get found in search engines by our prospects. That's who we want to reach. We don't have to do media outreach for every news release."

Publish a news release if you have content.

The game changed, so play differently.

You: "I'd like to send out a news release next week."

PR Firm: "Next week is right before Christmas. No one will read it and we won't get any coverage. Its bad timing."

You: "News releases help us get found in search engines by our prospects. That's who we want to reach. We don't have to do media outreach. Plus, the bloggers are still writing. Maybe this week there will be a lot less than the 12,000 press releases there normally are, and this one will actually stand out."

Publish a news release if you have content.

Measurement

Measuring Keywords

1. Manually Search in Google
2. Use Keyword Grader (HubSpot)
3. Watch rank over time
4. Changes are not immediate

Measuring New Links

1. Manually Search Google
2. Use Link Grader (HubSpot)
3. Measure quality
 1. Website Grade
 2. Page Rank
4. Look at anchor text

Measure Traffic & Leads

(When a website with lots of traffic picks up your article....)

1. Measure number of visitors
2. Measure number of leads
3. Look at conversion rate for that traffic source (HubSpot)
4. Add an event to graphs (HubSpot)
5. In the future, focus PR effort on media that drive leads

Advanced

Social Media News Release

1. New template for “modern PR”
2. Embraces social media a bit better
3. Embraces multimedia
4. I am not sold, yet.
